Overview

2014 was a noteworthy year for the Planning Department in terms of the volume of development activity taking place in the community and the number of development review requests that were processed. The activity levels experienced in 2014 were similar to those from 2007 and 2008, prior to the economic recession. The table below compares 2014 Planning Department development review tasks with 2013. Also indicated is the known peak year of activity for each type of review.

Planning Department Staff Profile

The 2014 staff of the City of Columbus - Bartholomew County Planning Department included 8 members. Of those staff positions, 6 were professional community planners and 2 were administrative support personnel.

The staff serves to support the activities of the City, County, and Joint District Plan Commissions and Boards of Zoning Appeals. The staff is also often called upon to provide information and assistance to the Mayor, the County Commissioners, the City Council, the City Board of Public Works, and other city, county, civic, and regional organizations. The staff's primary tasks are to (1) guide the public through the property development process and (2) serve as a resource for long-range community planning and the discussion of community land use issues.

During 2014 Thom Weintraut left the Planning Department to accept a position with the City of Auburn, Alabama. As a result of Thom's departure, Emilie Pinkston assumed the floodplain administrator duties and Allie Keen was promoted to Senior Planner and assumed the subdivision specialist tasks. Also, Ashley Klingler joined the staff as an Associate Planner and site plan specialist.

The AICP label indicates those staff members who have earned their professional certification with the American Institute of Certified Planners. This certification recognizes community planning professionals who have attained a high level of education and experience. Those who hold this certification are required to meet semi-annual continuing education standards and adhere to the AICP Code of Ethics and Professional Conduct.

Planning Department Budget Trends

The 2014 Planning Department budget was $679,806, an increase of $2,653 from 2013. It should be noted that comparing Planning Department budgets from one year to the next is difficult and should only occur in the context of the larger City budget as a whole. In attempts to find efficiencies, reduce overall City costs, and streamline the procurement process certain line items have shifted from individual departments to a single City account and vice versa. For example, in 2013 funds for cellular phone service and health insurance were dispersed from a single City-wide account into the individual department budgets (which resulted in a $103,596 increase in the Planning Department budget).

About the Boards & Commissions

The development review role of the Planning Department includes facilitating the work of the City of Columbus, Bartholomew County, and Joint District Plan Commissions, Plat Committees, and Boards of Zoning Appeals.

- Plan Commission: The Plan Commission is the primary authority for land use and development policy and regulation in each jurisdiction. The Plan Commissions make recommendations to the legislative body (Columbus City Council, Bartholomew County Board of Commissioners, or Joint District Council) for each jurisdiction on land use policies (in the form of the Comprehensive Plan), land use regulations (the Zoning Ordinance), and subdivision development standards (the Subdivision Control Ordinance), as well as specific requests for zoning map changes. The Plan Commissions makes final determinations on specific subdivision and site development plan requests from property owners and developers.
- Board of Zoning Appeals: The Board of Zoning Appeals is a quasi-judicial body that makes final determinations on specific requests by property owners and developers for exceptions from the established land use regulations found in the zoning ordinance as well as requests for approval for any land uses listed by the zoning ordinance as “conditional”.
- Plat Committee: The Plat Committee is a sub-committee of the Plan Commission with the authority to approve new minor subdivision requests that involve a small number of lots and no new public infrastructure. The Plat Committee members also join local utility providers and City and County department heads to form the Subdivision Review Committee, which completes technical reviews of major subdivisions prior to their consideration by the Plan Commission.

Joint District Appointed Officials

The Edinburgh / Bartholomew / Columbus Joint District Plan Commission has jurisdiction over an area of approximately 2.5 square miles bounded by a triangle formed by County Road 900 North, I-65, and US 31. The Joint District is the only one of its kind in Indiana and was created through special legislation. The Joint District, per its interlocal agreement, shall be in existence until 90% of the area has been developed.

In some instances, Joint District organizations are shown with open positions and/or members with expired terms. These groups meet infrequently and in some cases do not meet at all during the course of a calendar year. As a result, some of the appointments by a certain group are not current. Any required appointments are made current if and when an application requiring action by one of these groups is filed. Due to the limited size of the area and limited number of subdivision requests the Joint District does not use a Plat Committee. Instead, all minor and major subdivision requests are considered by the Plan Commission.

These certificates are used to verify the compliance of a development proposal with the adopted regulations of the City, County, or Joint District, as appropriate. Zoning Compliance Certificates are issued in several categories, which are detailed in the table below. The 2014 ZCC figure represents a slight decrease from the 256 applications processed in 2013.

5-year ZCC Trends by Jurisdiction

Of the 225 ZCCs processed in 2014, all but 3 were found to be in compliance with the applicable zoning regulations and were issued by the Planning Department.

Of those 3 that were not issued, one was withdrawn by the applicant, 1 was denied, and 1 was found to not be required.

Site Development Plan Summary

The Plan Commissions are responsible for the administration of several “site development plan” districts and sites. These specific zoning categories and locations provide for expanded plan commission oversight of the details of the development of individual properties. Site development plans are required for some Planned Unit Developments (PUD) in the City of Columbus, any development in the Public / Semi-public Facilities (P) and Commercial: Downtown Center (CD) zoning districts in Columbus and Bartholomew County, and Industrial Reserve (IR) and Shopping Center (C-3) zoning districts in the jurisdiction of the Joint District Plan Commission. In 2014 a total of 20 site development plans were processed by a Plan Commission (an increase over the 8 processed in 2013). Those applications are detailed by the tables provided below.

Plan Commission review is only required for modifications to previously approved site development plans that alter significant components of the original approval. Other “minor modifications” are processed by the Planning Department staff and reported in the Zoning Compliance Review portion of this report.

Of those applications, one was withdrawn by the applicant, one was denied by the County Plat Committee, and one was denied by the City Plan Commission following an appeal of the initial Plat Committee approval.

Board of Zoning Appeals Activity Summary

In 2014 the Columbus, Bartholomew County, and Joint District Boards of Zoning Appeals heard a total of 67 cases (a noteworthy increase from the 47 cases heard in 2013).

The City and County BZA Hearing Officer heard a total of 27 additional cases, granting final approval in all of those cases. Cases for which the required decision criteria appear to clearly have been met are initially scheduled for consideration by the hearing officer. These cases are forwarded to the board of zoning appeals of jurisdiction if new information presented at the hearing officer meeting raises doubt that the criteria have been met.

Some cases involve multiple variance requests. For example, a single case involving a proposed new sign may include two separate development standards variance requests – one for the height of the sign and one for the size of the sign face. The tables beginning on page 26 summarize all individual requests and list them by hearing authority – the City Board, City Hearing Officer, County Board, or County Hearing Officer.

Long-Range Planning & Special Projects

The processing of applications for consideration by a Plan Commission, Board of Zoning Appeals, or other entity is only a part of the responsibilities of the City of Columbus – Bartholomew County Planning Department. Other responsibilities include providing training for local elected and appointed officials and initiating and supporting long-range planning & visioning processes. During 2014, the Planning Department was involved in multiple long-range planning projects, several of which are summarized below:

State Street Corridor Plan Development & Implementation

In February of 2013 the City of Columbus hired Chicago-based Lakota Group to prepare a State Street Corridor Plan. That Plan was completed and adopted as an element of the City of Columbus Comprehensive Plan in 2014. Lakota had been selected from 9 firms which had submitted their qualifications for the project. Lakota's $63,335 compensation for the project came from a combination of the City's Economic Development Income Tax (EDIT) funds and the Columbus Area Metropolitan Planning Organization (CAMPO). The State Street Corridor Plan is intended to serve as both (1) a long-term land use plan for the properties along State Street and (2) a readily-implementable strategic plan for the redevelopment of the area.

The State Street Corridor Plan project was facilitated by the Planning Department and overseen by a 16-person steering committee. The steering committee included State Street business and property owners, representatives of community organizations (such as the Columbus Area Chamber of Commerce), and a representative of the Indiana Department of Transportation (which has jurisdiction over State Street itself).

Significant progress on the project had been made in 2013. In that year the Lakota Group documented existing conditions along State Street, identified issues and opportunities, researched redevelopment options, collected public input, and completed an initial draft of the State Street Corridor Plan. Their work was guided by input from the Planning Department staff and the steering committee. In December of 2013 the Lakota Group provided the Planning Department with the first complete draft of the State Street Corridor Plan. The staff reviewed the draft and provided it to the steering committee for discussion and feedback. At its December 16, 2013 meeting the steering committee was asked to provide specific feedback as to (1) the phasing of catalytic redevelopment projects, (2) an overall strategy for funding the implementation of the plan, and (3) the possible addition of design standards for State Street properties.

The Lakota Group used the steering committee comments on the draft plan to refine the document's content during the initial months of 2014. A Final Draft was presented to the public on April 28, 2014. Approximately 50 members of the public attended the April 28 event, which included both an overview presentation of the Plan and an open house segment. During the open house individual members of the public could study displays of the Plan's content and speak with the consultants, the Planning Department staff, and the steering committee members. Comments from the public were collected and provided to the steering committee for consideration as the Plan was finalized. The completed Plan was approved by the Columbus Plan Commission on June 11, 2014 and adopted by the City Council on July 1, 2014.

The Planning Department played an active role throughout the State Street project by organizing and facilitating the work of the steering committee, making arrangements for public open house locations and news releases, conducting State Street research, developing public meeting strategies with the consultant, identifying catalytic projects with the consultant, and providing a critical review of draft plan materials.

The Planning Department staff currently serves as a resource for the Mayor, the City Council, the City Engineer, and a State Street Implementation Committee as they consider options for taking action on the Plan's redevelopment recommendations.

Columbus Strategic Growth Study

In 2013 the Planning Department began an in-house effort to create a Strategic Growth Study for the City. This study is intended to provide a technical analysis of the natural features, infrastructure, and municipal services that affect where and to what extent the future expansion of Columbus can occur. The need for the Study was identified based on observations by the Economic Development Board that Columbus lacked areas for future industrial development and indications from residential developers that adequate sites for new subdivisions and apartments were difficult to find. The Study is intended to work with the previously created Columbus Infill Site Profiles to provide a complete picture of local development potential, including that both within and outside of the current City boundaries. Among the development factors research by the Planning Department in 2013 were fire protection, sewer service, water service, floodplains, wetlands, park service areas, and road conditions. Also researched were annexation laws and Columbus municipal code provisions that may discourage agricultural property owners from seeking annexation, such as those for hunting, burning, and the keeping of farm animals.

Data collection was completed in late 2013, with analysis beginning in early 2014. The Strategic Growth Study was completed in December of 2014. The final document includes all of the collected data as well as a detailed description of the analysis process. The completed Study provides maps of potential residential, commercial, and industrial growth areas. Also provided are both overall recommendations as well as specific recommendations for each of the 3 profiled land uses. The Strategic Growth Study provides a thorough summary of the current growth issues for the City of Columbus as well as a road map of infrastructure improvements and policy changes needed to make additional properties available for development. These recommendations occur within the overall context of the City's Comprehensive Plan, which encourages orderly, efficient growth that avoids the characteristics of sprawl.

SUMMARY

The City of Columbus Five Year Comprehensive Park System Master Plan (2012-2016) includes classifications for every park within the Columbus corporate boundaries. Park classifications were based upon park size and the amenities within each park. Each park classification was ultimately determined to have a serviceable area. The following map depicts the serviceable area for each park.

LEGEND

Parks, Greenways, and/or Nature Preserves

Community Park Service Area

Community Parks have an average service radius of 2 miles. These parks contain areas suited for intense recreational purposes such as a recreation center building, athletic fields, swimming, tennis, and walking/jogging trails. Community Parks require a minimum of 3 acres per 1,000 individuals served.

Parks characterized as Community Parks include: Blackwell Park, Clifty Park, Donner Park, Lincoln Park, Mill Race Park, and Nobilt Park.

Neighborhood Park Service Area

Neighborhood Parks have an average service radius of 1/2 mile. These parks are characterized by family oriented recreational activities such as court games, crafts, playground apparatus, picnicking, and space for quiet/passive activities. Neighborhood Parks are designed to serve a population of up to 5,000 individuals, but in many instances serve more.

Parks characterized as Neighborhood Parks include: Amberley Park, Harrison Ridge Park, McCullough's Run Park, and Oakbrook Park.

Mini Park Service Area

Mini Parks have an average service radius of 1/4 mile. These parks are relatively small in size (less than 4 acres) and contain facilities to serve a specific segment of the population. Mini parks are typically located within close proximity to more densely populated neighborhoods, such as multi-family buildings and urban areas.

Parks characterized as Mini Parks include: Mead Village Park, Morningside Park, Ninth Street Park, and Pence Street Park.

Columbus Infill Development Site Profile Updates

In 2012 the Planning Department undertook a process to identify, catalogue, analyze, and publicize locations within the community suitable for infill development and re-development. The creation of these Infill Development Site Profiles was intended to assist with community goals for the protection of farmland, the efficient use of infrastructure investments, the wise use of tax-payer dollars, orderly long term community growth, and quality neighborhoods. A total of 34 infill locations were profiled. For each location the Planning Department developed a double-sided “cut-sheet” of information. The front page describes the property’s location, size, current zoning, and other features. The back page provides an analysis of the property’s context and the guidance provided by the City’s Comprehensive Plan to suggest a range of possible future uses. The Planning Department also established a webpage devoted to the infill profiles. This page includes a description of the intent of the profiles and the location selection criteria, the profiles themselves, and an interactive map for locating the infill sites within the community.

In 2014 the Planning Department completed an update of these profiles. The update included new floodplain information where applicable to reflect new FEMA Bartholomew County floodplain maps. The update also re-examined the previously identified sites and re-surveyed the community for any additional sites to be added. The changes included the removal of 5 sites because they had been developed or otherwise had become unavailable. One new site was added and 4 existing sites were amended.

In 2015 the Infill Site Profiles portion of the Planning Department website will be revised to more broadly provide information on development opportunities and will feature both the infill sites and the Columbus Strategic Growth Study.

Columbus Housing Needs Assessment Executive Summary

In March of 2013 the City of Columbus hired Bloomington, Indiana based Strategic Development Group (SDG) to perform a community housing needs assessment. The intent of the study was to review the housing supply and demand at all income levels city-wide, identify gaps in supply, and make recommendations for resolving any shortages. Particular emphasis was placed on housing for low-income residents, senior citizens, and young professionals, which has been perceived to be in short supply. The project was managed by the Columbus Community Development Department and the Mayor's Housing Advisory Council, which is a gathering of local providers of primarily low income housing.

The Planning Department facilitated the aspects of the housing study that related to market-rate housing. This included the organization of a market-rate housing committee to provide community feedback on the consultant's conclusions. The Planning Department also collected and analyzed building permit data and developed a process for assessing the extent to which new construction was responding to the identified gaps between existing supply and demand.

In early 2014 the Planning Department authored the executive summary of the Columbus Housing Needs Assessment. The executive summary is intended to provide focus to the extensive data collected and reported by SDG during the project. It makes use of the gap analysis technique developed by the Planning Department to identify income groups for which housing shortages are not being addressed.

Floodplain Management Profile

The Planning and Code Enforcement Departments together are the floodplain administrators for Columbus and Bartholomew County. Code Enforcement is responsible for all floodplain regulations related to single and two-family residences. The Planning Department is responsible for the floodplain regulations as they relate to commercial and industrial development and subdivision approvals.

The floodplain management task involves administering a relatively complex set of FEMA-mandated regulations. These regulations combine both Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and Indiana Department of Natural Resources (IDNR) minimum requirements with additional local regulations. Each local requirement is crafted to reflect the local community's choices regarding flood risk and to support the City and County's participation in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) Community Rating System (CRS). The voluntary CRS program reduces flood insurance costs for local property owners in response to community initiatives that preserve floodplains as open space, provide public floodplain education, increase flood protection regulations, etc. Failure of the local communities to enforce minimum mandated floodplain regulations could result in federally-backed flood insurance being unavailable to community property owners. Failure to enforce additional CRS-related programs and regulations could result in increased flood insurance costs for all community property owners.

Typical Planning Department floodplain management responsibilities include (1) providing information to realtors, developers, and the public; (2) ensuring that new development complies with floodplain regulations; (3) monitoring federal and state law and FEMA and IDNR policies for changes to the minimum regulation requirements; (4) tracking permits and other approvals related to development and construction activity in the floodplain; and (5) making available a current set of FEMA-provided Flood Insurance Rate Maps (FIRM) for the community.

As part of the Planning Department's ongoing role as floodplain administrator numerous floodplain determinations are made each year for lenders, developers, homeowners, and realtors. A determination is made by locating the property in question on the Flood Insurance Rate Map, interpreting the map, and reporting the flood hazard category in which the property is located.

Haw Creek Supplemental Floodplain Regulations

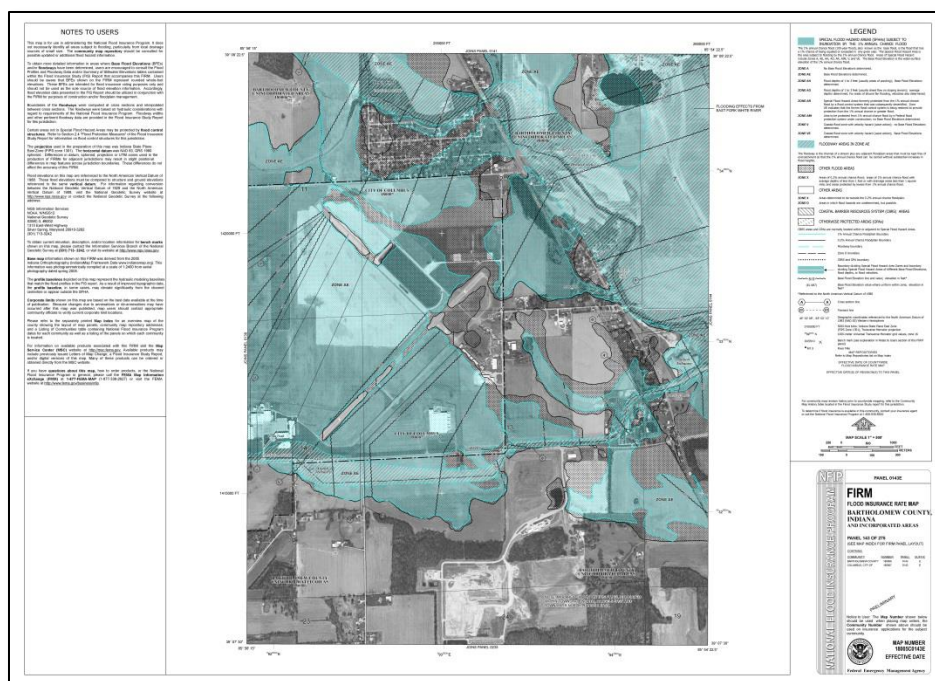

In 2011 the Columbus City Council adopted supplemental floodplain regulations for the Haw Creek watershed. These regulations were based on Christopher Burke Engineering's study of flood risk along Haw Creek. These supplemental regulations expanded the area considered to be 500-year flood fringe and extended the appropriate regulations to those areas. They also identified flow conveyance paths necessary for floodwaters to move downstream and extended floodway-like protections to those areas.

Prior to the adoption of the supplemental Haw Creek regulations the owner of property on the south side of 2nd Street near Haw Creek had obtained a permit to place fill on this site. The issuance of this permit complied with all applicable regulations at the time. However, the Haw Creek study showed this area to be a flow conveyance path necessary for moving storm water and required modeling to assess the impacts of any fill. The fill activity on this site was not subject to the Haw Creek regulations due to the lawfully obtained permit prior to their adoption.

FEMA Floodplain Map Updates

The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has been in the process of updating flood hazard area maps in Indiana for several years as part of a nation-wide map replacement effort. The process of finalizing the updated maps for Columbus and Bartholomew County began on September 28, 2011 when FEMA provided preliminary copies of the updated maps. FEMA, working with IDNR, subsequently held a public open house on January 5, 2012 at Columbus City Hall for the purpose of discussing the new maps with affected property owners. The open house provided the public with an opportunity to review and comment on the preliminary maps and was followed by an official appeal period.

In the summer of 2014 the Planning Department received notice from FEMA that the appeal period had concluded and that any appropriate changes to the replacement maps were complete. Both the City of Columbus and Bartholomew County were required to adopt the new maps for use locally in regulating floodplain development by no later than December 9, 2014. The adoption of the replacement maps is a condition of the City and County's participation in the National Flood Insurance Program. The replacement maps were adopted by the City of Columbus on November 5, 2014 and by Bartholomew County on November 10, 2014. That process also included updates to the Flood Hazard Area regulation text found in the Zoning Ordinance to comply with the recently updated IDNR model for such regulations. These text updates were also required for the City and the County to continue to participate in the National Flood Insurance Program. The Planning Department served as the primary contact for FEMA and IDNR during this process, authored the ordinances adopting the new maps and text changes, and worked with local surveyors and the Bartholomew County GIS Mapping Department to make the new maps available publically.

The 2014 replacement flood hazard area maps included aerial photography and were provided electronically in a format that was compatible with the Bartholomew County GIS, making them more accessible and more clearly interpreted than their predecessors.
